MoDOT Centennial: Celebrating a Century

On March 22, 1913, the Missouri Legislature created the Missouri State Highway Department. Almost immediately afterwards, construction began across the state to link adjoining county seats with paved and maintained roadways.

By the beginning of the next decade, Legislatures were trying to "get Missouri out of the mud" realizing that economic prosperity and growth were integrally tied to transportation.

Over the decades MoDOT has managed to keep Missouri moving. Today the state serves as a transportation crossroads for the entire nation.

On the cover: The cover of Missouri's Centennial Edition highway map features a collage of historic photos and the I-29/I-35 Christopher S. Bond Bridge in Kansas City, which was opened to traffic in 2010. The Bond Bridge is a landmark, cable-stayed bridge over the Missouri River and replaced the Paseo Bridge, which was built in 1954. Rules of the Road

- Traffic laws vary from state to state. Here are some Missouri rules you should know
- Missouri law requires drivers to wear their seat belts.
 - Missouri law requires drivers to slow down or move over (when safe to do so) when approaching emergency or maintenance vehicles working on the highways.
 - If you're involved in a minor, non-injury traffic crash, state law requires you to move your vehicle off the road to keep traffic from backing up.
 - Children under eight years of age must travel in an appropriate child safety seat or booster seat unless they weigh 80 pounds or are 4 feet, 9 inches tall.
 - Headlights must be used in foggy weather and whenever weather conditions require drivers to use their windshield wipers.
 - Hitting a highway worker with your vehicle could cost $10,000, as well as a lost license for a year.
